He says You are the reason for all your sorrows and happiness. If there is any person in this whole world who can completely change your life, then it is none other than you. There will be times when you will feel that your efforts are going in vain. .

But if you look carefully, you will find that none of your efforts goes in vain, if you do not get success in that effort, then you definitely get experience and the same experience can make you successful in the next attempt.

It doesn't matter how hard you are facing today because life has not been easy for anyone, life seems easy only when you are strong from inside yourself.

If you want to remain immortal even after death, then you will have to sacrifice many things while you are alive and believe me it is not so difficult to give up those things and habits.

The reason for the failures of most people is that they get stuck in their small pleasures, but if you want big success, then you will have to leave small pleasures and go through difficult paths for the big goal.

There is no shortcut to hard work.
