Structure of the Organization 2022-23

The Organizational chart of an institution shows the hierarchical structure of the organization and the relationships between different departments and positions. It can be a useful tool for understanding how the organization works and who is responsible for different tasks.

The principal is the head of the institution and is responsible for the overall operation of the organization. The vice principal reports to the principal and assists with the day-to-day management of the institution.

They oversee the work of the faculty in their departments and ensure that the academic programs are running smoothly.

The faculty is responsible for teaching and research. They also provide academic advising to students and participate in other departmental activities.
